Ben's position as a Design Engineer carried the following responsibilities:

Sourcing of materials and products to specific specifications

Liaison with site engineers.

Design of new products.

CAD engineering of systems.

Some site works to gain experience.

Ben is skilled in CAD design, Research and has great Interpersonal Skills. Ben proved to be a helpful member of the team who picked up well on the job at hand.

Ben was a likeable character and fitted in well with our other employees.

It was with regret that we were not able to extend Bens temporary employment but due to general market conditions this has not been possible. If and when we are able to consider new employees Ben would be at the top of our list. I consider that Ben consistently achieved good results and delivered to our expectations.

Yours faithfully
